

DISCOVER THE CHARLOTTE

Inspired by our Pacific range of homes with a hint of barn house, The Charlotte is a space you will call 'home'. Across a single storey, she boasts an open plan living space that extends from opposing wall of the house with a seamless extension of an exterior timber decking, which wraps around to the front porch and detailed with a sheltered pergola. A starkly beautiful feature unique to The Charlotte is the sizable triangular symmetrical windows that sit at the pitch of the ceiling above the kitchen, allowing stunning northern light to fill up the living space especially during winter when the sun rides low. The generous kitchen layout and island bench seeks connecting views across the deck and through the living space, which is centralised around a stone fireplace. This entire space has been designed in mind to optimize crossflow of natural breezes through the home to providing a breathable cooling system and the exposed rafters are a nod to the architectural structure of traditional Pacific bungalows. Polished concrete flooring further aids in creating a thermal mass system where heat from the sun can control the temperature within the home. An elongated breezeway stretches from the main living and branches off to a media room retreat, master bedroom, and additional two bedrooms at the front end of The Charlotte, an accommodating lifestyle for majority of homeowners.
